B. OF T. STARTS PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

The directors of the Board of Trade combined pleasure with business Tuesday evening when they were the guests of President T. W. Hanson at a dinner at the Douglas hotel at Lovells.

The calls on the Board of Trade are many and there is need of strenuous work here this summer. Literally millions of people are coming to Michigan for their summer outing and it is up to Crawford county to cash in on this gold mine while the getting is good. Almost every community that has anything to offer is hollering about it big and loud.

The Board of Trade is limited for resources and isn't able to spend $500 for a summer advertising campaign. They need help. In the mean time the advertising committee is going ahead with plans that will mean the expenditure of a lot of money and expect that those who are to be benefited are going to help pay the cost. In fact the public will have the easiest part of it—pay the cost.

Mrs. Douglas served a fine dinner as usual and Mr. Hanson and his guests did it ample justice. Thirteen sat down to the table. Besides the ten members of the board of directors there were three guests present—T. F. Marston, secretary, and his assistant Joe Dermody of the East Michigan Tourist association, and Mr. Pearsall, all of Bay City.

The topic of discussion was advertising Crawford county. Everybody entered into the discussion and many excellent suggestions were offered. All agreed that quick action was very important. Already inquiries are coming in by the score and printed matter is needed in order to answer them.

Mr. Dermody stated that never before had the Tourist association received so many inquiries this early in the season as it has already received this year. He says that the tourist business in Michigan was going to far exceed last year's high mark. "The people are coming and it will be up to us to show them what we have got and how to get here, and then treat them with the utmost courtesy."

It means extra millions of dollars for the people of Michigan. The Tourist association thru its office in Bay City has been doing great service in spreading the story of Michigan thruout the Central states and now the people of those commonwealths are knocking at our doors for admittance. Michigan has what they want in summer and they are coming here for their summer outings.

Mr. Marston had already visited some of the lodges on the AuSable river and had some knowledge of their magnitude. Mr. Dermody had never had that pleasure, therefore Mr. Hanson took him and Mr. Marston to the Lovells meeting via a long way around. They started immediately on the arrival of the afternoon train from the south and visited a few of the cabins and lodges on the Main stream of the AuSable. Others in the party were Fred Welsh and T. P. Peterson. The trip was an eye opener to Mr. Dermody. The beauty of the river and the many fine homes and lodges were a revelation to him. Cottages ranging from the more humble ones costing a few hundred dollars to some that cost more than a hundred thousand dollars dot the banks of these famous rivers—the Main stream, the North Branch, the South Branch and the Big Manitowish.

Only a few of these places could be seen in the short period of an afternoon. Both Mr. Marston and Mr. Dermody agreed that Crawford county had more to offer tourists than any other one county in the state. The individual or the family seeking places of quiet seclusion and rest where they may be quite alone can find it here. Those seeking adventure amidst the wildernesses, on lakes and streams will find what is to their liking in abundance. Nature never smiled any more favorably upon any region than it did on Crawford county, where its magnificent streams wend their devious ways thru the wild woods, thru valley and fowl morass, where game birds and song birds carol their festal songs, where the deer and bear love to play and hide. Streams where the gamiest fish that ever swam the waters of any rivers take the fisherman's fly. Lakes in which abound the gamie black bass and pike and others of the finny tribe. It's all here and we have but to let the people know and they will select Crawford county for their play ground when they come to our beautiful Michigan. Pictures that excel in beauty the artist's brush await those who glide down the swift waters of our several major streams.

The advertising committee of the Board of Trade hope to present the story of Crawford county in picture and text for the enlightenment of those who would know where to spend their summer outing. This committee is going to need a lot of help for it takes money to put this over. Subscriptions from any source will be most welcome. Checks mailed to A. J. Joseph, secretary, will find their way into the advertising fund that will have to be raised for this publicity, and they will be most welcome. The SOS call is out for funds. Every resort owner, every lodge owner and every property owner in the resort region, hotels, garages and other business firms may well afford to assist in this expense. The contributions should be liberal and given freely. It is a work for all and the members of the publicity committee hopes the responses will be generous and that they will come in early. $500 is needed right away.

LEGIONNAIRES GO TO BAY CITY

Harding-Old-Craig Post, No. 18, American Legion, will have the honor on Wednesday, May 29, of entertaining Paul V. McNutt, National Commander of the American Legion, and dean of the law school of the University of Indiana, in connection with the holding of the Tenth District meeting here.

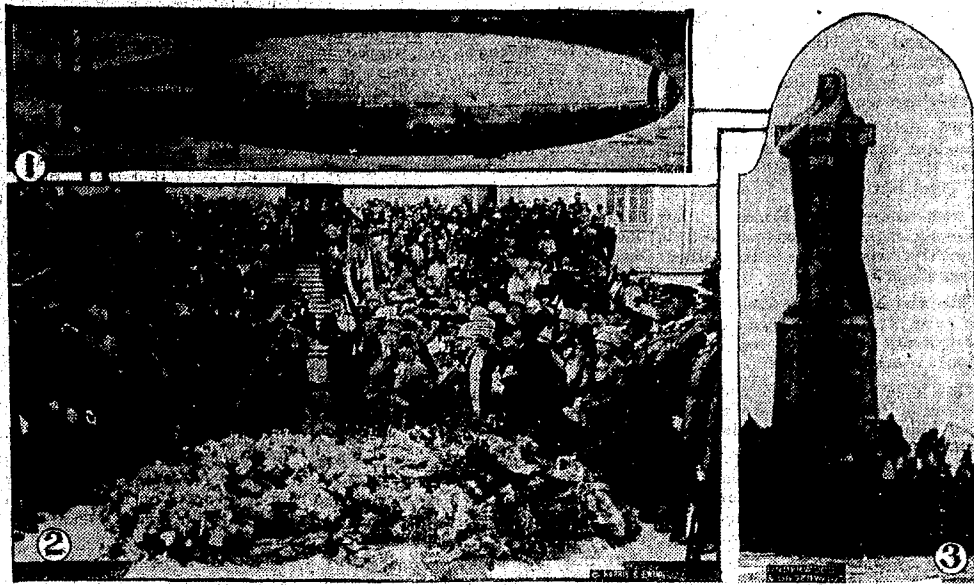

In order to permit as many as possible to hear the National Commander, the Bay City Lions Club, which meets regularly at noon on Wednesday, has thrown open its meeting to all Legionnaires not only in Bay City but in the entire Tenth district, and has also invited the Kiwanis, Rotary and Exchange clubs to meet with it. A capacity crowd is expected. Mr. McNutt will speak only at this luncheon and not at the Tenth district meeting.

Commander McNutt will be accompanied here by Ray C. Conlon, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, Department Commander of the Legion, Department Vice-Commander Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, and Department Adjutant Robert J. Byers, also of Detroit.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETINGS CHANGED TO 2D MONDAYS IN JULY

The date of the annual school meetings has been changed by the last legislature from the second Monday in June to the second Monday in July. This law affects primary, graded, township unit, and rural agricultural schools only. That includes stream, the North Branch, the South Branch and the Big Manitowish.

Therefore we wish to call special attention to the date of the next annual school meetings, which will be held on the second Monday in July. The fiscal school years begin July 1st and with the annual meetings being held in July it enables the boards to present complete annual reports at the annual meetings.

A birthday party, such as would be most welcome by anyone, was the pleasure of our esteemed citizen Rueben S. Babbitt last week Friday. He was 70 years old on Thursday and on the following day Mr. Babbitt returned home from the trout streams to find Mr. Mark M. Sibley and his sister Miss Sibley of Detroit awaiting him. There they presented him with a huge birthday cake.

After a short visit the guests requested Mr. Babbitt to go with them to the Avalanche office where they desired to take some pictures. One of the pictures showed Mr. Sibley presenting Mr. Babbitt with a package that contained a purse of several hundred dollars and the following letter:

To Rueben S. Babbitt:
The undersigned, your loyal friends and well-wishers, greet you on your seventieth birthday and join in this little gift to you as a token of our affection and esteem. We know you for a square sport and a straight man, and we hope that you live to be a hundred years old, in good health all the way.

Mr. Babbitt says it was one of the biggest surprises of his lifetime. He stated that his family had never paid any special attention to birthdays and that this was the first birthday party he had ever had. He was deeply grateful to his friends and still more appreciative of their esteem and friendship.

The list contains the names of some of the most prominent citizens of Detroit, some of whom Mr. Babbitt had guided on the rivers and hunting grounds many years ago. He says he recalls well that he was on the streams with Mr. Sidney T. Miller on the day that President Garfield was assassinated—July 2, 1881. That was a long time ago. And down thru all the following years he has increased his circle of friends until now he is known to sportsmen in almost every state in the union. Many of these old friends have gone but still there seems to be literally thousands who still remember him and by whom he is held in the high esteem that is manifest by his Detroit friends. And right here at home where he is intimately known, Mr. Babbitt's friends are those who know him. Besides being the highest type of sportsman he is also a splendid citizen. We are sure the high tribute paid him by his Detroit friends is shared by the men and women and the boys and girls of Grayling.

School Notes

(Written by the students of the English classes.)

Grayling Wins Two Games

Grayling High School won their second game in two days and their fourth straight of the season as they swept aside the Roscommon High School by the score of 19-2. The day before Grayling took a hard-fought battle from Gaylord 4-2. It was the best game of the year only one or two misplays marring it.

Reggie Sheehy pitched the full seven innings against Roscommon and did very well holding the Roscommon boys to two runs while his teammates piled up a large score for him to work on.

"Red" Daugherty was put in the box for Roscommon in the fifth inning and Pond, the first Grayling man to face him, slammed the first ball pitched to the fence for a triple.

Thursday's game with Gaylord was a mound duel between Schmidt and Andrews. The local team could not get at Andrews for any run until the third inning and then they collected two runs for Schmidt to work on. In the fifth they added one more and in the eighth scored again to put the game on ice. Base hits were few and far between in this game.

The next game scheduled is with West Branch High School here Friday. The game will be called at 3:00 sharp.

The Junior class has picked out the class-rings for 1930 the year in which the class will graduate, they are very good looking and attractive. The rings are being bought through the local jeweler, Carl Peterson and the service is remarkable to last year's service. A class meeting was held Monday and all business was done at that meeting.

The Junior class gave the assembly on Wednesday. It was a Memorial Day program. Details of the program will appear in next week's notes.

Don't forget the play "Clarence" tomorrow night at 8:00—25c and 40c. Reserve seats at Central Drug Store.

Mr. Smith the piano tuner, had quite a large audience last Friday afternoon when he was trying out the school piano after he had tuned it. Everyone was well pleased with his playing.

The tickets are on sale for the Senior class play. They have put in many hours of practice and this ought to be good. Let's all turn out and enjoy it.

The English Literature classes enjoyed (???) a test over the life and works of Dickens last Thursday.

SENIOR PLAY "CLARENCE"

FRIDAY, MAY 24

The story of "Clarence" is a plot laid in the home of a millionaire. It is a comedy drama displaying domestic strife of the same. The story is woven around a soldier who was caught without employment in the economic reconstruction following the World war. The effects this soldier had on the domestic tranquility of the home is gigantic. The personality of the returned soldier Clarence had an important bearing on every member of the home. The big question of this plot is who is Clarence? Why is he here? What does he want?

Stop! Look! Listen! Something extraordinary in the line of entertainment. The biggest and most stupendous treat of the evening happens when the second curtain falls and the other curtain rises, in other words that which comes between the 2nd and 3rd acts.

Luke and Hiram, two well known country lads will be in town for the evening and will then favor us with a few special singing numbers. The only living impersonators of the "Two Black Eyes." The best ever seen on the stage this side of the Atlantic. Don't miss them (you can't if you come) but if you stay away you will always regret it. They will be the talk of the hour and maybe longer. "The Masters of Comedy." Baskets will be furnished for all unnecessary articles which you have about your person during this act.

309 FOREST FIRES IN MICHIGAN THIS YEAR

The forest fires reported in Michigan up to the middle of May this year show a total of 309 fires, and 1539 acres burnt over. This is considerably below the area burnt during a similar period in 1928. Up to the present time the average per fire has been 13 acres. The fire season of 1928 with a total of 1304 fires showed an average burnt area of 35 acres for each fire.

FREDERIC COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES NEXT WEEK

Rev. Greenwood To Give Commencement Address; Rev. Earle Baccalaureate

The Commencement address for Frederic will be given in the school auditorium by Rev. J. W. Greenwood of the Grayling M. E. church Wednesday evening, May 29th.

Mr. Greenwood has acted in this capacity for different high schools and has always been very successful. It is well known in this community that he is an orator of no mean ability; and the excellent thoughts that he presents will be inspiring and helpful to all.

Again, we should have a reasonably large representation from Grayling as well as from other surrounding townships. A large crowd makes the speaker enthusiastic, and we owe it to him and to Frederic.

When a decisive basket ball game is played, the towns that the players represent are usually well represented. This is as it should be, but the literary as well as the physical side of our education should be of interest to the people.

Baccalaureate

The Baccalaureate address for the seniors of the Frederic schools, and for the community of Crawford county, will be delivered Sunday evening, May 26, 1929, by Rev. D. N. Earle in the Methodist Protestant church of Frederic.

This is the only address of this kind that will ever be delivered to the seniors during their high school days; and for this reason the citizens of the different communities of Crawford county owe them their attendance. Let it not be merely a turning out of the neighbors, and a few of the close friends of the seniors in Frederic and other places, but let the people in the other townships of Crawford county honor us with their presence, and remind our graduating class that they are interested in them. We should fill the church to its capacity in order to elevate instead of lowering the moral and spiritual courage of our young people.

ROSE CITY TO HAVE TOURIST PARK

(By E. M. T. Service)

Rose City, in Ogemaw County, is planning to maintain an up-to-date tourist park. The park has been donated to the city by Harry M. Jewett. An arch will be erected at the entrance to the grounds and materials and labor are being donated by the residents of the city. It is Mr. Jewett's idea to make the park a community project, rather than a city project.

MUSIC BOX OPENS DECORATION DAY

FORMERLY COLLENS PAVILION NOW A CHARMING PLACE

Those who sometimes indulge in the social diversion of dancing will be delighted with the news that The Music Box at Lake Margrethe is to open its doors Decoration day.

For many years known as Collen's Pavilion it has taken on a new name and is under new management and has undergone the most drastic rejuvenation. The grounds have been improved and parking places provided for guests.

Inside the pavilion has been redecorated and is now as charming a dance pavilion as may be found in Northern Michigan. Manager Clarence Johnson says it is not the largest dance pavilion in the north but it is the "Snappiest Pavilion in the North."

The engagement of Don Cox's orchestra of Flint is another big hit, for the Teacocks are the favorite night club orchestra in that city.

There will be dancing at The Music Box on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights during the month of June, and every night except Mondays and Thursdays during the months of July and August.

As before there will a tea room in connection. This place too has taken new form and will be sure to meet the approval of those who patronize the place. Everything is delightfully clean and attractive and the food will be relishing and appetizing.

The big opening will be Decoration Day night. Dancing will start at 9:30—park plan.

Young People Will Be Young People

By THOMAS ARLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois

There has always been a certain amount of youth in the world, and in the eyes of middle-aged men, youth has ever seemed to be a thing of the past. Youth is always a thing of the past, and it is always a thing of the future. Youth is always a thing of the present, and it is always a thing of the future. Youth is always a thing of the past, and it is always a thing of the future. Youth is always a thing of the present, and it is always a thing of the future.

Northanger Abbey, written one hundred and thirty years ago, so Miss Austen's biographer says. Isabella, reckless and daring to ignore the conventions of the time, was going off unchaperoned in an open carriage to drive fifteen miles or so with her brother John and Mr. Morland. It was as bad as if a pair of lovers today should park their car on a side road at midnight with the lights out. Catherine was discussing the matter with the Allens whose guest she was at Bath.

"Well," said Mr. Allen, "do you think of going too?"
"No, I had just engaged myself to walk with Miss Tilney before they told me of it; and therefore, you know, I could not go with them, could I?"

"No, certainly not," Mr. Allen replied, "and I am glad you do not think of it. These schemes are not at all the thing. Young men and young women driving about the country in open carriages! Now then it is very well; but going to Inns and public places together! It is not right; and I wonder Mrs. Thorpe should allow it. I am glad you do not think of going; I am sure Mrs. Morland would not be pleased. Mrs. Allen, are you of my thinking? Do not you think these kind of projects objectionable?"

"Yes, very much so, indeed. Open carriages are nasty things," Mrs. Allen replied, thinking more of her clothes than of the awful immorality of which the wild young people were committing. "A clean gown is not five minutes wear in them. You are splashed getting in and getting out, and the wind takes your hair and your bonnet in every direction. I hate an open carriage myself."

"I know you do; but that is not the question. Do not you think it is an odd appearance if young ladies are frequently driven about in them by young men to whom they are not even related?"

"Yes, my dear, a very odd appearance, indeed. I cannot bear to see it."

And then Mr. Allen, more philo-sophic possibly than his wife, "But one must not be over particular. Young people will be young people as your good mother says herself. Young people do not like to be always thwarted."

No more do they today any more than they did one hundred and thirty years ago when Jane Austen was a girl. Perhaps the best solution is not to take their irregularities too seriously but to be philosophical about it as Mr. Allen was. They are going to do quite as they please anyway in spite of our protests.

Short Treatment Of New Medicine Ends Suffering

Grateful Man, Who Had Been Ill For Seven Years, Finds Powers Of Konjola

MR. THEO. HAHN
"Now I know why so many people call Konjola the master medicine," said Mr. Theo. Hahn, 500 Greenfield street, west side, Saginaw. "I suffered for seven years from kidney and bladder troubles. There were awful pains in my back, and it was not unusual for me to have to arise 7 or 8 times every night due to bladder actions. I was as tired in the morning as when I went to bed at night."

"But things are different now, thanks to Konjola. By the time I had used four bottles my condition was as good as it ever was. My kidneys and bladder have been corrected. The back pains have vanished—I never have to get up at night any more. I enjoy sound, refreshing sleep every night, and wake up in the morning well rested. I owe all this new health to Konjola."

Konjola is sold in Grayling, Mich., at the Mac & Gidley drug store and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.

Harry Sinclair will spend six months in confinement for believing his lawyers when they told him he didn't have to testify.

There is no "sure sign" of spring, but spring should be a "sure sign" of the arrival of that time for the community to clean up. There is no superstition or prophesying about this clean-up sign.

When warm weather has come to stay (until cold weather returns in the autumn) every owner of property and tenant should instinctively feel it his duty to remove the evidences of winter's ravages and to aid and augment nature in her work of re-beautification.

Every spring clean-up program should include disposal of winter's accumulation of litter and decayed vegetation, repairing and repainting of buildings, and landscape gardening. Landscape gardening is no longer associated with large estates alone.

Cleanliness about the person or the home costs nothing. A community clean-up need involve no expense, except of a moderate amount of labor on the part of the householders. If there ever were excuses for uncleanness they were removed long ago.

What is the compensation of a community-wide clean-up campaign? It improves the general health of the community by removing deposits that are breeding places of disease germs and disease carrying insects. A clean town is a better place in which to live than one that is unsanitary and unsightly. And the best community advertising is the appearance of being "cleaned-up, painted-up and planted-up."

The country may be going to the dogs like a lot of mental dyspeptics claim it is, but the fact remains that our churches gained more than eleven hundred thousand members in 1928.

DEER KILLED BY WIRE FENCE

The extent to which many kinds of conservation work depends on local and popular cooperation is well illustrated in the report of Conservation Officer, James K. Jamison, of Bergland.

"A two-mile stretch of highway—M-28 near Bergland, is so situated as to constitute a veritable deer trap," says Jamison. "The highway is bordered on one side by a deer yard and on the other by a woven wire fence enclosing the right-of-way of the South Shore Railroad. Deer wandering out of the yard in early spring are stampeded by fast motor traffic and many have broken their necks on the wire fence. Last year a score were killed in this manner; most of them were with unborn fawns. The cooperation of the State Highway Department was secured and signs were placed at each end of the stretch of highway cautioning motorists to use care in approaching and passing this part of the road. This plan together with the vigilance of the local wardens on several foggy mornings has reduced the loss this year to a single deer."

NEW ESSEX SPEEDSTER
The most recent addition to the 1929 line of the Hudson Motor Car Company is this flashy, ultra-stylish, special "eighty" speedster mounted on an Essex the Challenger chassis. The body, custom built by Biddle and sharp, is low and suggestive of the fastest of race cars. It is equipped with a folding windshield and there is a surprisingly large rumble seat in the rear deck. A top and side curtains are included as part of the standard equipment.

The car comes in a variety of colors and all bright work is chromium plated as on all Greater Hudson and Essex the Challenger models.

On account of the extreme lightness of this type of body, and the low center of gravity found in this model, Hudson engineers have found it practicable to incorporate an overdrive which makes it possible to combine safety with the tremendous speed which this car attains.

By means of special construction which makes it possible to lower the back of the seat to the floor, it is possible to convert the entire rear of the car into a very comfortable bed.

Our idea of the depth of oblivion the last few weeks is that oblivion by the family that lives in the other half of the Coolidge duplex at Northampton, Mass.—Kansas City Star.

BETTER PAY FOR FIRE FIGHTERS
The reported change in the rate of payment for impressed labor for fighting forest fires from the former price of 20 cents per hour to 30 cents, does not go into effect for ninety days, the necessary period for a ruling of this kind to take effect.

Here's where a car leads a tough life

NO General Motors car is turned out of the factory until a fleet of exact duplicates of that model has been found good by the engineers at General Motors Proving Ground.

Such an advance model must prove itself from stem to stern. The tests involve speed, power, endurance, braking, riding comfort, handling ease, fuel, oil, and tire economy, body strength—every phase of car construction and performance. It's a tough life.

Such testing would be beyond the means or resources of an individual. 1268 acres of land at Milford, Michigan, are devoted to this outdoor laboratory where hills are steep and roads are vicious. Men who are among the world's best automotive engineers conduct the tests.

This tested performance is as much a part of a General Motors car as the chassis. You can't see it. You don't pay extra for it. But you know it as you give the car long use on the road.

CAMEL CIGARETTES

WHY CAMELS
ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels contain the choicest tobaccos grown . . . expertly blended for matchless taste and fragrance.

They have a welcome mellowness and mildness that you will find in no other cigarette. Smoke them as often as you like, Camels never tire your taste.

The quality of Camels is never permitted to vary.

Only a superior cigarette could have won and held world leadership for all these years as Camel has done.

You can bank on the quality of a cigarette that continues to be the biggest success in smoking history

AUTO WAS CURIOSITY

A new kind of machine was seen recently in Atoyac, Mexico. Natives of the Pacific Coast town viewed this modern invention with a great deal of curiosity. It was an automobile.

General Rafael Sanchez, commander of the State of Guerrero, drove a Model A Ford phaeton across country from Acapulco to Atoyac, over land so rough that none had made such a journey before. He sent this wire to R. Z. Martinez, Ford dealer at Iguala:

"For your pleasure please be informed that the Ford car I purchased from you is the first automobile that has ever reached this town, over a difficult country where there are no roads at all and the land is strewn with rocks and soft sand. Motor in perfect condition after terrible test. Small native towns along path regarded first automobile with positive wonder."

Ignorance and Attractiveness

By THOMAS ARKLE CLARK
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

"Where people wish to attract," an Eighteenth century writer, and a woman, says, "they should always be ignorant. To come with a well informed mind, is to come with an inability of administering to the vanity of others, which a sensible person would always wish to avoid. A woman, especially, if she has the misfortune of knowing anything, should conceal it as well as she can. . . . It will only add injustice to man that though, to the larger and more trifling part of the sex, imbecility in females is a great enchantment of their personal charms, there is a portion of them too reasonable, and too well informed themselves, to desire anything more in woman than ignorance."

A good looking girl with an affectionate heart, and a very ignorant mind cannot fail of attracting a clever young man, unless circumstances are particularly untoward."

I should hesitate to make such a statement myself, but when a shrewd and intelligent woman is responsible for the idea I can only find confirmation of her opinions in my own experience. This tendency of the intelligent, clever and well informed to mate with the ignorant, I believe, not confined to my own sex. I have often seen it illustrated in women of superior intellect. The explanation, I presume lies in the vanity of human beings and especially in men. Nothing feeds a man's vanity more than the feeling of his superior knowledge. Ask him for information which he has at hand, listen to his tale of adventure, his accounts of his investigations, his schemes for improving economic conditions or for reorganizing the government and you flatter him at once. He begins to think you a person of unusual insight and perception. The dumb wife is usually a good listener, and a clever husband likes nothing better than to fill her with useful information. Nothing so irritates a vain, even though he be an intelligent man, than to be corrected in his statements of alleged facts, to find some one who knows more than he himself does about the subject which he may be discussing. It is for this reason that ignorance often fascinates, charms, and intrigues the man of superior training and intelligence.

It is this weakness in man which led me to an understanding of Burns' matrimonial bargain. He was a handsome young fellow, both physically and mentally strong. He was exceedingly well informed not only upon law, which was his profession, but upon a half dozen other subjects quite remote from legal lore. He must have been very vain, for the woman he married, though well enough looking, was intellectually a total loss. I had never supposed that outside of a feeble-minded asylum, any person could be quite so dumb as an evening's social intercourse with Mrs. Burns proved her to be. There could have been no other reason excepting her total ignorance which had charmed Burns.

Objected to Knitting

In London Co. Council
Knitting needles may not click an accompaniment to the debates in the London county council.

This unwritten law was laid down with emphasis by an irate masculine objector when Dame Beatrice Lyall, member for East Fulham, produced a pair during an all-night session and proceeded to click off interminable hours of debate with as many inches of warm woolen sock.

No woman has yet had the hardihood to produce knitting needles in the house of commons, but in the past Mrs. M. P.'s have done so.

The most famous knitter in parliamentary annals was one of the Watson brothers, who were well known to a former generation at Westminster. They were such big men that they were prominent figures wherever they appeared, and the spectacle of one of them, a man six feet tall and proportionately hefty, plying his knitting needles throughout debates in the house must have been incongruous. His fellow M. P.'s apparently thought nothing of it, however, for there are no chronicled objections in parliamentary archives.

Black Ants Valuable to Worry Coco Louse

"Without Black Ants No Coco" reads a sign posted at the entrance of a great plantation in central Java.

It does not go unheeded, for the natives had in some four million nests of these little creatures every year, and receive payment in return. These black ants live only upon trees infested by the white coco louse.

Neither the louse nor the ants injure the trees. The real enemy is a certain beetle whose name is Helopeltis, which also attacks the tea plant. It has been found that when the black ants are present the Helopeltis fails to injure the trees. Apparently this sap-sucking pest is disturbed by the activity of the ants, for the latter do not attack the beetle.

This is why the black ants are protected. Food is provided for them by picking the white coco lice from the shells of the fruit, where they congregate, and placing them on the coco trees to attract the ants and disturb the beetles.

An Arithmetic of 1649

In the Garcia library of the University of Texas is the oldest arithmetic in America. Upon tunceling its vellum covers and back skin thongs your memory may go back to that proud but unwelcome day when your own schooling arrived at the portal page of "Vith avens one discover" that pupils of 1649 had to wade through seven chapters of mathematical quicksands. The pioneers evidently desired to obtain strength of mind in their children for it was a stern age. Another chapter was devoted to the formation of military companies in squares, hexagonal units and other strange geometrical forms. Otherwise the book shows pupils struggled with the same problems that perplex modern youngsters.

Poet a Pleasant Companion

Matthew Green, an English poet who was born in 1696 and died in 1737, proved himself a witty and pleasant companion for his friends and his employers. While working in the customs house and wishing to supply with milk the cuts which were kept there, Green wrote a successful petition in their name.

At another time when a water man insulted him as he was bathing by calling out, "Quaker" and a friend asked how his sect could be detected when he was wearing no clothes, Green replied, "By my swimming upstream."

In many of his writings his humor is apparent, especially in "Splice," a poem published posthumously.

Loyal Fox Terrier

A delightful little story of the faithfulness of a fox terrier is told in a Budapest (Hungary) newspaper. The little dog was a great friend of a street flower seller. One day he missed her from her place and mooped. The next day she was still absent. He rushed into the restaurant where he belonged and made such a disturbance that the waiters set to work to discover what it was all about. They made inquiries about the flower seller, and learned that she had been run over. A collection for her was made in the restaurant as a tribute to the dog. Perfectly true, says the newspaper.

Color of Planets

Venus, Jupiter and Mars are of different colors. Venus is a silvery white, Jupiter is yellowish and Mars is red. The hue of planets represents their true colors, while the color of stars is caused by the temperatures of their surfaces. Observed through a telescope, Venus is seen to be covered with brilliant white clouds, while the clouds of Jupiter are saffron. Mars is not obscured by clouds, however, and through a telescope its surface can be observed. This shows wide expanses of what has been described as red desert, possibly a red sand or rock.

CHEBOYGAN TRANSPLANTS TREES

The Boosters Club of Cheboygan has just completed the transplanting of 525 trees in the new Olds Bay Shore Park. This is a municipal park and the Boosters Club, an organization of young men, took in charge the preparation of the grounds for local residents and visitors. The park will be available to tourists. The transplanted trees are sufficiently large to provide considerable shade.

POULTRY

GREEN FEED FOR GOSLINGS HELPS

Tender Grass Should Fill Principal Part of Ration.

An important item in the care of young goslings is to keep them warm and quiet for the first few days and an equally important item in their feeding is to start them out on green feed, preferably tender grass.

For about two days after hatching goslings show little inclination to do anything but keep warm and quiet. They may come from under the hen and nibble at whatever they may see that is edible. They are most partial to grass and tender plants, but will take a little mash if it is offered and will dabble their bills in the water.

After that the gosling begins to take more interest in affairs and will feed industriously for short periods, always preferring short, tender grass and weeds for its diet, with mash and other substantial feed that may be offered in small amounts. A common mistake is to feed green food as an accessory to grain feed when it should form the principal part of the ration with mash and grain as an accessory to the green stuff.

Goslings may be brooded with hens or in small colony brooders or with geese. In the latter case they will get along very well if left to the old birds, the keeper supplying a soft feed of grain once or twice a day as the appetites of the goslings may dictate. This is true only when the range is ample and furnishes good grazing. The geese which are mated with one gander will usually raise their broods in one group, the gander being watchful over his whole family.

When the goslings are brooded by hens or brooders they require close attention while small. They should be confined for the first few days in pens which will keep them near the hen or brooder. These pens can be made of narrow wire netting or boards and placed on sod. When the goslings clean off the grass they should be moved.

Egg-Eating Habit Among Hens Hard to Control

The egg-eating habit is usually caused by the hens getting hold of a soft-shelled egg that happens to be dropped on the ground somewhere in plain sight. They get to rolling it about, finally breaking it, and the trouble has started. The next thing is to get it stopped. Sometimes it may be stopped by making a slight break in the side of an egg, running a part of the white and then inserting a good dose of cayenne pepper, closing the hole with adhesive tape or court-plaster. Drop this out among the guilty ones and see what they do with it and how it affects them. Another way is to heat an egg to the boiling point, crack slightly and place out for them.

In case neither of these work, a plan that will be effective is to put a false bottom of burlap in your nest box just a few inches from the real bottom, tacking it around the sides, then cut a cross in the center of the burlap large enough for the eggs to drop through. They will go down out of sight and trouble. It may be that at the start of this dirty work you may be able to locate one leader, and taking her out to herself the trouble in the flock will be ended.

Poultry Facts

Keep hens ridged of worms.

The air in a chicken house should be continually moving at a fairly slow rate.

The first three weeks of the life of a chick is recognized as one of essential importance.

Baby chicks will digest a crop full of mash in from two to two and a half hours and are then ready for another feed.

The brooding turkey should receive a good laying mash along with scratch grain.

The turkeys should not be fed straight alfalfa meal or alfalfa stem meal because it is too bulky to be handled by their digestive systems.

It is generally recognized by poultry disease specialists that chickens have remarkable resistance against most diseases, and the class of troubles commonly spoken of as colds and roup is no exception to this statement.

The first symptoms of colds among a flock are sneezing and loss of appetite and activity by those infected.

Liver troubles in hens are difficult to treat, as they are seldom discovered until the bird becomes sick and dies suddenly.

Hens don't need and can't eat such feeds as cornbobs and shucks. Save the corn-and-cob meal for the cows. Give the hens whole corn, or preferably cracked corn. They'll lay more eggs.

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

How Lizards Change Color

Chameleons and some lizards have power to change color. Some of the cells within their skin are filled with yellowish oil drops, some cells contain small granules which look white from reflecting light, and still others contain brown or reddish pigment. Contraction of different parts of the skin at the will of the lizard causes the different cells to function.

Miss Ellen Johnson, who is a member of the nursing force at University hospital, Ann Arbor, is visiting at the home of her parents in Beaver Creek township.

Mrs. Albert Bentley was given a pleasant surprise party at her home last Friday afternoon, the occasion being her birthday. There were 14 ladies present and she was the recipient of many pretty gifts.

John Jeffers of Saginaw called on John Bruun last week on business and social matters. Mr. Jeffers is interested with Mr. Bruun and others in oil development in this region. Test wells are now being drilled near Riverview by the North Michigan Land and Oil Corp.

John J. Niederer suffered a stroke of paralysis Monday forenoon in the H. Hanson restaurant, while eating his breakfast. A physician was called and he was removed to the home of his son Fred where it was found his right side was affected by the stroke. His many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

The final club party of the season for the Bridge Club was given at the home of Mrs. Robert Reagan Tuesday afternoon. A luncheon of lovely appointments was served, the table being most attractive with pink snapdragons as a centerpiece. Three tables were filled for bridge. Mrs. Lorane Sparkes receiving the club prize and Mrs. Walter Woodson the guest prize. Mrs. Pearsall of Bay City and Mrs. Walter Woodson of Salisbury, N. C. were guests.

A number of Grayling friends called on Mrs. Joseph Douglas at her home in Lovells recently and found that lady comfortable and happy. In spite of her 87 years she is still bright and happy, does her own housework and takes an active interest in the affairs of that community. She loves music and plays and sings surprisingly well. For many years she has been the organist at the little church and enjoys the work greatly. And when friends come in to see her she hasn't forgotten how to be real hospitable.

A. M. Lewis and son Mark of Flint spent the week end in Grayling.

There was a dance at the home of Norman Slingerland Saturday night.

The Grayling Hardware store has been treated to a fresh coat of paint.

William Cook of Manistique visited at the Andrew Brown home Sunday.

Einer Jorgenson is home from Detroit coming to enjoy trout fishing for a few days.

Fr. J. L. Culligan is spending the week in Grand Rapids visiting his father and brother and family.

Hurl Deckrow returned to Pontiac, after being here over the week end visiting his mother, who is ill.

Rev. and Mrs. Alfred E. Sorenson of Seattle, Wash., are the proud parents of a son, born on May 10th.

Miss Doris Quackenbush, music teacher, enjoyed a visit from her parents of Mt. Clemens last Sunday.

Mrs. Augusta Walt of Detroit visited Grayling relatives Sunday, a guest at the home of Mrs. F. A. Barnett.

This is a funny world. Two neighbors, both good citizens, disagree over some trivial matter, and keep getting mad and madder, till they forget their usual good sense, make "a mountain out of a mole hill," and both run after law, to make a bad matter worse. Take our advice, let law and lawyers severely alone, stop talking ugly and in a week you will both forget the circumstance.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Collen had as their guests from Monday until Wednesday, Miss Lucille Bortz and Lieutenant Nichols of Detroit, who flew here in the latter's airplane. The party enjoyed a two days fishing trip on the Manistee river and although the weather was a little cold, they enjoyed themselves very much and took home a nice catch of trout.

Mrs. Ernest Borchers returned Saturday from Chicago where she had gone Thursday to accompany her little son Donald home. The little boy had been at the Children's Memorial Hospital for observation and while there contracted the scarlet fever, prolonging his stay. Mrs. Borchers was accompanied as far as Bay City by Mrs. William Heric and little daughter Patsy Hope and Mrs. Herbert Gothro, who visited Mrs. Clarence Brown, until Saturday.

Grayling was well represented at a rally of Oddfellow lodges of six counties of the north at Petoskey last Saturday when a class of 167 candidates received the initiatory degree. There were four candidates from Grayling, Harry McEvers, Neil Matthews, Charles Wylie and Earl Annis and the following members of Grayling Lodge were also in attendance: Chris Johnson, Paul Ziebell, J. J. Hanselman, Rudolph Feldhauser, Malcolm McLeod, P. F. Jorgenson, Leo Jorgenson, Chris King, Scott Wylie, Dan Brado, Roy McEvers and Neils Neilsen.

Glenn B. Hawthorne of Bay City, father of Mrs. Harold Jarmin of this city, died suddenly at his home early Thursday forenoon, May 16th. The cause of death is given as angina pectoris. Mr. Hawthorne was 52 years of age. Mr. Hawthorne and family at one time resided in Grayling where the former was employed at the du Pont plant. The family had many friends here who will be grieved to learn of their loss. The funeral services were held Saturday afternoon. Interment was at Elm Lawn cemetery. Mr. and Mrs. Jarmin and son Alton of this city were in attendance at the funeral.

THE NEW PONTIAC BIG 6 '745 AND UP

THE WEEK IN WASHINGTON

(By Congressman Roy O. Woodruff)

The Fordney-McCumber Tariff Bill, which became the law in 1922, carried a tariff rate of $1.75 per hundred pounds on white, or navy beans. The rate carried on this most important farm product under the Democratic Tariff Law of 1913 was twenty-five cents per bushel.

The Representative of the Michigan Bean Growers' Association, Mr. J. M. McBride of Burton, Michigan, appeared before the Ways and Means Committee during its general hearings on the bill now before the House and asked an increase in the tariff on beans from $1.75 per hundred to $2.75 per hundred pounds. This figure was arrived at after extensive investigations of the cost of producing beans in this country as compared to the cost of producing this crop in other countries, and the tariff asked was one which in the judgment of the bean producers would measure the difference in cost of production here and in foreign countries. The Committee made a recommendation of only $2.60 per hundred pounds in the bill reported to the House.

On Saturday, the 18th, I appeared before the Republican members of the Ways and Means Committee who are now hearing the different members of Congress relative to the tariff schedules, with a view to correcting any mistakes they may have made in arriving at the figures reported in the bill. It seemed important to me that I lay before them certain facts in connection with the importation of beans during the past year.

Within the past few days I have secured from the Department of Commerce complete reports on the importation of beans and certain other products during the past year, and was amazed to find that there were more white beans shipped into this country the first six months of 1922 than there had been in any one year in the country's history.

Figures from the Department show that in 1922 Canada increased her shipments over 1921 from 12,485 bushels to 156,076 bushels; Mexico increased hers from 26,348 in 1921 to 120,219 bushels; the Netherlands from 38,300 to 55,493 bushels; Japan from 460,199 to 577,763 bushels; Chili from 81,583 to 308,744 bushels; Belgium from 15,398 to 294,967 bushels; Hungary from 22,990 to 43,031 bushels; England from 3,690 to 49,858 bushels, and Germany increased her shipments from 80,168 bushels in 1921 to 194,133 bushels in 1922. This indicates very clearly that unless a most substantial increase is granted in the tariff on this product, the American farmer will eventually be compelled to cease the growing of this crop. I supported Mr. McBride in his demand for a duty of $2.75 per hundred pounds.

The white bean is one article of food which can be grown here in sufficient quantities to meet our domestic demands. In this country we raise the very best beans in quality that are raised anywhere in the world. Michigan raises the best bean that is raised anywhere in the United States, and it is interesting to note in a report I have from the Department of Agriculture that of the 16,589,000 bushels of beans which were raised in this country in 1922, Michigan alone raised 5,918,000 bushels.

Another thing not generally known regarding food prices and food value is the fact that with one American dollar we can buy more food value by buying the white Michigan bean than we can by expending that money for anything else other than beet sugar. The food value incorporated in these two products is cheaper to the consuming public than in any other food product utilized by the people of the United States.

While before the members of the Ways and Means Committee I also urged upon them the importance of increasing the tariff on potatoes. The Fordney-McCumber tariff law provided a tariff of 50c per hundred pounds on this product, and the bill reported from the Committee and now before the House of Representatives carries no increase over this figure. I stressed the fact that in approximately three years out of five, the present tariff on potatoes is not effective, due to over-production. With approximately two years out of five when conditions are such that the potato raisers can obtain a higher price for their crop, the tariff simply permits them to recoup some of the losses suffered in the other three years. I asked the members of the Committee to increase the present rate of 50c per hundred pounds to 75c per hundred pounds.

As I have stated before, it seems to me that while we are writing a tariff bill we should so arrange the agricultural schedules as to give the American farmer as much of the American market as he can reasonably supply. This will promote the production of many crops which have heretofore been neglected by farmers of some sections of our country and will tend to reduce the production of our large exportable surplus on other crops. This will be helpful in solving the farm problem.

LOCATE FIRES EARLY

Forest fires may burn in Michigan, as elsewhere, when it is beyond human agency to stop them; but under Michigan's system of observation fire towers, they never go unnoticed from the moment the smoke climbs above the tree tops. In April a fire in Manistee County was sighted and cross shots were called for from eight different towers within two hours after the fire started. The tower closest to the fire was five miles away, the farthest was forty-two miles air-line distant.

SCHOOL NOTES

(Continued from first page) examinations were conducted here last Thursday and Friday. This was a big day for a lot of the students from the rural schools.

The American History class is beginning the study of the World War. Miss Estee had five history classes and every one of them is studying some stage of the war. Evidently she will get all she wants of it. Most of us enjoy the study of this war because it was the most recent one and we can all remember something of it. The only thing that is hard about it is the pronouncing of the foreign names. We all make a try at it but for some of us it doesn't go so well.

It looks as if our baseball team is going to be a winning one. They have won every game so far. Let's hope that they continue the good work.

Everyone of the High School students should try to support the team as much as possible.

Miss Lewis' second hour Chemistry class had a test Monday morning over the previous week's work. She had promised it to us Friday but so many of the students were absent that it was postponed.

Laura Sammons has returned to school after a week's absence, spent in Pontiac, Flint and Detroit.

The Juniors are happy because they have at last settled the question concerning their rings. They have all agreed on one, and they will be sent for as soon as possible.

Miss Richard read a very interesting story to her Caesar class one day last week. It was certainly a treat after studying and translating.

The Geometry class has been on one proposition for several days. It has been picked to pieces, put back together again and we are still working on it. It proves to be very interesting. We re-wrote a statement of the proposition. There were several real good ones handed in but with most there was something wrong.

We are studying William Thackeray in English Literature now and find him very interesting. More people are waking up to the fact that they "must" study before coming to class now, as we are apt to have a written quiz over the day's lesson.

Some of the classrooms have been redecorated and it certainly is a big improvement. The rooms are much lighter now and consequently we can see better to work; especially on dark days.

We have been studying Dickens and Thackeray in English Literature. Their works are an interesting contrast.

The members of the public speaking class have finished their debates and are learning poems which are to be recited the latter part of this week.

The students are feeling quite elated over their recent victories in baseball, having won every game so far this spring.

The Seniors are busy getting ready for the Senior play that will be given in the High School auditorium Friday, May 24th.

A number of the High School students attended the J-Hop given at Gaylord last Friday, May 17.

We are wondering what would happen if:

Elsie Johnson started dieting.
Miss Estee forgot to be good natured.

Edith Bidvia forgot her gum.
Miss Lewis forgot to smile.

Margaret Warren grew up.
Alice Mahneck didn't whisper.

Anna Hanson failed to get a scold- ing.

Mr. Hill lost his dramatic art.
Ellen Speck forgot to study.

Lewis Elgie forgot his good manners.
Elmer Fenton forgot his slams.

Mrs. Bogue forgot to assign a lesson.
Grace Parker forgot to be slow.

Mr. Cushman forgot to issue permits.
Eleanor Gorman didn't get hurt in lab.

Helen Woodburn ever missed her Caesar.

Miss Richard forgot to say "Let's have the talking stopped."

Miss Dorr failed to decipher shorthand notes.

Annabelle Harris forgot to borrow a compact.

James Post failed to slam Miss Estee and Miss Lewis.

Bill Garner forgot some of his past experiences.

BUILDING OUT-OF-TOWN TRADE FOR MERCHANTS

"Burt, Mrs. Kellogg was in the store today. She lives fifteen miles out of town, but she comes in regularly in her car to buy here. She told me she follows the ads in the weekly religiously. And she is just one of many that drive in to town to shop as a result of reading the ads."

"Yes, the ads certainly help to build out-of-town trade. The local ads are attractive, too. George Stone buys an up-to-date cut and ad service that enables space-buyers in the local paper to show well-drawn illustrations of their goods, just as the merchants in the largest cities do."

"I asked Mrs. Kellogg why she happened to take the paper so far from town. She said her family couldn't do without it."

"Well, the farmers in this section are growing prosperous. They have more money to spend for clothes, furniture, autos, radios and many other things."

"And in the local paper they can find ads that tell them where to spend their money for necessities and luxuries with greater savings to themselves—and benefit to the merchants and to local business—right here in town."

TEACH CARE FOR TOURISTS

MICHIGAN STATE COLLEGE WOMAN SPECIALIST AVAILABLE THROUGH DEVELOPMENT BUREAU

(By E. M. T. Service)

Arrangements have been made between the North Eastern Michigan Development Bureau and the Extension Service of Michigan State College whereby Miss Murial Dundas, nutrition specialist, will spend the summer months in counties of North-eastern Michigan aiding women of the district in solutions of their household problems through courses in home economics. One of the important services which will be rendered will be those homes which accommodate summer visitors.

Thousands of tourists who come to North Eastern Michigan seek accommodations at private homes. In recent years there has been an increase in the number of homes catering to these visitors. Miss Dundas will be available to these places with suggestions and information on equipment, the preparation and serving of food and other auxiliary problems.

Miss Dundas' office will be with the North Eastern Michigan Development Bureau in their Log Office, and individuals, groups and communities who desire her services should address her there.

An ever-increasing number of Michigan women are finding solutions for their household problems through the courses in home economics offered by the Extension Service of Michigan State College.

How to select clothing for the family when the budget is small, how to plan the meals for the needs of each member of the family, and most of all how to avoid that tired-out feeling that comes at this time of year from a diet too low in minerals and vitamins. These are only a few of the questions that are occurring in every home.

North Eastern Michigan has perhaps had less of this home service from the college than other sections of the state due to its scattered population. Hence women are welcoming the news that assistance is now to be available to this district.

Community meetings will be held to explain the courses available in foods and nutrition, clothing, home management and home furnishing. The general plan which has been employed throughout the state where home economics courses are being given is as follows: Ten to twenty community groups in a county elect two representatives each who are called project leaders. These women meet with a specialist from the college once each month to receive the instructions and materials necessary for the teaching of the lessons in their own communities. This enables a much larger number of persons to receive the training with a minimum amount of time and effort. Forty-three counties in lower Michigan and ten in the upper peninsula are now enrolled with the specialist in the home economics extension courses.

The state program in home economics is under the direction of Mrs. Louise H. Campbell, state home demonstration leader, who with her staff organize and carry to the remote districts of the state the principles of better homemaking.

Summer brings to this section a growing number of families who spend their vacations in their automobiles. They desire food and lodging at moderate rates. Many homes are asked to accommodate these summer visitors. These homes are thus confronted with a problem, which may bring to them added income with small outlay. The problems of how to equip their rooms at a low cost, what to serve these guests whose food habits may differ widely from their own, and how to plan so that the balance comes on the right side of the ledger, these and other problems will be discussed individually and with groups by Miss Dundas. Demonstrations of food, discussion of health problems, of preparation, etc., will be discussed by the specialists in community meetings where the women are interested in beginning a home economics program.

Another feature of the program is the convenience truck which will visit the district during June, July and August. Two days will be spent in each county at centrally located places.

VISIT AUTO ROW FOR A KICK

By Erwin Greer
(President Greer College, Chicago, Ill.)

There is as much human interest in "Automobile Row" as there is in, say, one of the police courts, although, of course, the element of human interest in neither spring from the same source.

There, you see the millionaire giving an order for three cars, each costing more than $5,000, as casually as he would order a soft drink at a soda fountain. The check that he writes out in payment means absolutely nothing to him, and the cars do not either. He would just as soon ride on the street car, but the wife and the family must keep up appearances.

In the next place you see a newly married couple with just a few dollars. They want a machine as cheap as possible, because she will have to stop work, before long, while she goes to the hospital to have her baby, and he wants her to have a car so he can drive her around nights and Sundays, while she has to stay at home after that.

In the next, there will be the college boy, who wants a car to impress his fraternity brothers—a snappy bright roadster for him—and his parents must pay for it. In the next, sales lot there will be a bootlegger, who wants a powerful, fast car with a big seating capacity, to replace the car that the federal agents seized last week.

No matter what variety or vintage of automobile you are driving, and attempting to pay for, a stroll through Automobile Row will make you dissatisfied. You are sure to see some glowing new model, with bright door-dials and disappearing seats and snappy fenders and rakish tire carriers that will make you start figuring with some salesman on your year after next pay checks.

Brave is the man, and lacking in ordinary ambition, who can walk through even a small section of Automobile Row, without stopping in at least two or three salesrooms to inquire after the price and terms on a certain beautiful machine that has charmed his eyes and brain.

CHANGE NAMES OF LAKES

During the past year considerable progress has been made in getting rid of undesirable, inappropriate, or duplicated lake names. There are scores of "Mud" lakes, numerous "Round," "Crooked," "Grass" lakes, "Long" lakes, several "Long" lakes and Ogema County three "Crystal" lakes. These cause great confusion and in some cases tend to hold up development of resort and recreation projects.

A committee composed of Dr. G. N. Fuller, Secretary of the historical commission, R. A. Smith, State Geologist, and L. R. Schoenmann of the land economic survey act as a clearing house between the local communities and the United States geographic board at Washington. The committee makes no changes in names and recommends changes in lake and stream names only after the local historical societies and authorities have investigated and approved the proposed change, giving their reasons. Special effort is made to retain local historical and Indian names.

Numerous "Mud" lakes were eliminated in Menominee in favor of more appropriate or desirable names. Grass Lake at Bellaire, Antrim County, has been changed to Lake Bellaire by approval of the U. S. Geographic Board. Similarly "Long" lake in Genoa Township, Livingston county, has been changed to Lake Chemung. Changes in certain stream names are now under consideration.

E. M. T. LITERATURE DISTRIBUTED AT CHICAGO

Folders, telling of the recreational appeals of East Michigan in picture and text, are being distributed in Chicago by 17 hotels in the downtown section, eight hotels on the north side, 11 hotels on the south side, 12 banks, 14 ticket offices and 25 information bureaus, located at the newspaper offices, department stores, express companies, etc.

The wets have been yelling a 'good deal about "life for a pint," and it probably is true that a good many lives have been snuffed out in the last few years because people have consumed even less than a pint of the stuff the bootlegger hands out.—Detroit Free Press.

Don't Let Your Community Make the Same Mistake

Within recent years many communities have made the mistake of paving their roads and streets at what they considered a "bargain price." The taxpayers thought they would save thousands of dollars.

In many instances the maintenance has not only wiped out the hoped for saving, but has exceeded original cost. And in many cases also it has been necessary to build entirely new pavements—of permanent construction.

There are communities, however, which know the cheapest is not always the best. Many of these also built roads and streets several years ago. And they built for permanence with concrete.

These concrete pavements, built in accordance with approved standards of construction, are in as good condition today as when they were built.

Which of these communities will yours be?
